

I find the information provided by XM radio to be more informative and useful than any of the local radio stations. XM is being more competitive in providing me with information that I want. It is up to the local stations to improve their programming if they want me to listen to their stations. It's not the Government's place to limit what a broadcaster can provide for news information on a national or local scale. If the local radio stations want my listenership they are going to have to shape up.
